Answer Key

Chapter 2

Section 2

Reteaching Activity

A. Identifying Command Economic Systems

1. socialist; some of the major industries are owned by the government and the government provides essential services, including education and health-care; however there is private ownership of a number of different economic factors including farmland, food distribution, and grocery stores.
2. communist; the government owns all of the factors of production and makes all of the major economic decisions, although there are democratic elements of government relating to how economic decisions are made.
3. socialist; the government owns the main industries of this country, but there is private ownership of other industries and services.

Copyright by McDougal Littell, a division of Houghton Mifflin Company