Answer Key

Chapter 10

Case Study Resources

Main Ideas

1. because the government is no longer going to subsidize the administering of student loans by lenders
2. Answers will vary; most students will note that, since loan rates are rising as a result of the switch to fixed rates, it is the government that will benefit at the expense of the borrowers.
3. Answers will vary; students may say that it is a good thing because these well prepared but poor kids will qualify for Federal aid, thereby costing the states less.

Copyright by McDougal Littell, a division of Houghton Mifflin Company